“ The cocktail is a modern invention, and is generally used on fishing and other sporting parties, although some insist that it is good in the morning as a tonic ”

*“How to mix drinks”
Jerry Thomas, 1862*

HOUSE RULES |

1. No cocktail “geeking” of any sort
2. No discussing topics such as “tinctures” or “shrubs”
3. No pointing out a certain drink could do with more bitters
4. No pointing out smoky or herbal notes in anything other than smoke or herbs
5. No evaluating the quality of our bartender’s Japanese hard shake
6. In fact, no Japanese things allowed, at all! (Just kidding, we love Japan, why do you have to be so damn good at everything?!)
7. No dashes of Cynar shall be added to any drink
8. Shots are allowed
9. Beer is also allowed
10. This is a bar, relax :)

Why not have a Gin & Tonic?

“The Old-Fashioned was an evolution of the Whiskey Cocktail which was simply whiskey, sugar, bitters, and water, and was served as early as 1800 or so.” It wasn’t until the 1870s and 1880s that when bartenders “began adding embellishments to their Whiskey Cocktails, some customers rebelled against the innovations,” as they preferred the traditional version and would choose to order “old-fashioned whiskey cocktails” in their place,”

Robert Simonson, The Old-Fashioned, 2014
